

ABSTRACT

Rosmita. 100241100619. Application of masrahiyah method in improving the maharah kalam students of grade XI IPS MAN Binamu Jeneponto South Sulawesi. Guided by A. Fajriwati T. and Nasruni.

The purpose of this study is to know the ability of masrahiyah methods in improving students' Arabic language skills and to know the application of masrahiyah methods in improving the Arabic language skills of students of grade XI IPS Man Binamu Jeneponto South Sulawesi.

This study uses PTK method by using qualitative descriptive approach that aims to find out if masrahiyah method is able to improve arabic language skills of Xi ips class students in MAN Binamu Jeneponto south sulawesi.

This research was conducted in the city of Jeneponto which lasted 2 months from March to April 2021. Sampling techniques are done by purposive sampling with 10 students.

The results showed that the masrahiyah method was able to improve the maharah kalam students of grade XI IPS at MAN Binamu Jeneponto, this can be seen from the average score of the final result of students in cycle I and cycle II. The score in cycle 1 is 71.0 with the number of students very good once 2, good students 3. While in cycle 2 the average student score is 78.0 with a very good number of students once 3, the student is good 2. This shows that the learning process using Masrahiyah method can improve students' Arabic language skills.

As for the application of masrahiyah method, educators should first explain the implementation techniques, and determine the students who will perform in front of the class. Then the educator tells the course of events and the background of the story that will be staged so that the scene and mental readiness can be done in such a way. After the sociodrama is in its climax, the educator stops the play so that the possibilities of problem solving can be resolved in general so that the audience has a chance to argue and assess the sociodrama played. If there is an error in the sociology then the teacher stops it from being corrected. Lastly educators and students provide comments, conclusions or in the form of notes on the course of sociology for further improvements.

Keywords: Masrahiyah Method, Maharah Kalam