

ABSTRACT

BASO AHMAD AFDAL, 2019. Students' Motivation and Self Confidence in Speaking at SMA Muhammadiyah 1 UNISMUH Makassar (A Descriptive Quantitative Research) Thesis. English Education, Faculty of Teacher Training and Education Makassar Muhammadiyah University. Consulted by Nurdevi Bte. Abdul and Awalia Azis.

The study was about Students motivation and self confidence in Speaking. In learning English as a foreign language, there are several factors that can influence development in learning speaking skill, namely students' motivation and self confidence. The study was conducted to answer what motivation do the students have in speaking in English and how is the students' self confidence in speaking in English. The study was conducted at SMA Muhammadiyah 1 UNISMUH Makassar with descriptive quantitative research method. The sample of this study was students from eleventh grade. The data collected by using questioner that consisted of 12 questions about motivation ( intrinsic and extrinsic motivation) and 16 questions was about students' confidence that related in speaking.

The result showed that, in this study researcher analyzed students motivation that divided into two that are intrinsic motivation and extrinsic motivation. The data students intrinsic motivation was 73.08% than extrinsic motivation 69.25% lower than intrinsic. Then data about students self confidence from questionnaire are 76.6%. based on the data that researcher found are students' motivation and self confidence in eleven grade at SMA Muhammadiyah 1 UNISMUH Makassar are quite good.

Keywords : Intrinsic Motivation, Extrinsic Motivation, Students' Motivation, Students' Self Confidence, and Speaking.